

places2protect™ DATABASES

Critical Facilities Database

Critical Facilities include emergency medical and responder locations and information on their capabilities. The Critical Facilities dataset includes “feature” attribute information to help planners evaluate emergency response capabilities. Each type of critical facility has unique attributes that provide planners with insights into risks and emergency response options, and only places2protect™ contains updated and detailed feature characteristics for facilities throughout the U.S. and its territories.

Captive Populations Database

The Captive Populations dataset includes the locations of institutionalized populations and other sites that may require extensive evacuation resources. No other database of institutions is as complete, up-to-date, easy-to-access or as well suited for identifying captive populations. By comparison, U.S. Census data simply enumerates the night-time population by neighborhood—not critical facilities and captive populations—sites with concentrations of people to protect or evacuate.
